TRAINER QUALIFICATIONS

The experts leading the training are specialists in the covered subjects. They have been approved by our instructional teams for both their professional knowledge and their teaching ability, for each course they teach. They have at least five to ten years of experience in their field and hold (or have held) decision-making positions in companies.

ASSESSMENT TERMS

The trainer evaluates each participant's academic progress throughout the training using multiple choice, scenarios, hands-on work and more. Participants also complete a placement test before and after the course to measure the skills they've developed.

1 Clarifying the purpose and objectives of feedback

- Specify what feedback is and what it is not.
- Identify the need for positive and critical feedback for each player.
- Integrate the feedback loop: intention-action-effect.
- Discover the three objectives of feedback.

Group discussion

Development in sub-groups: focus on the usefulness of feedback for all players.

2 Giving and receive supportive or positive feedback.

- Identify appropriate contexts for giving feedback.
- Be aware of the importance of signs of recognition.
- Key elements to take into account for constructive feedback: timing, form, message components.
- Understand the impact of factual elements.
- Respond to positive feedback, know how to receive it.

Role-playing

Building positive feedback messages based on real situations and simulations. Trainer input.

3 Identifying emotions in feedback

- Know the three main styles of communication.
- Accept the place and usefulness of emotions in feedback.
- Identify situations in which feedback should be put back in time.
- Identify your emotions.
- Accommodate your own emotions and those of others.

Role-playing

Individual reflection: identify your emotions and their impact.

4 Giving critical and constructive feedback

- Clarify your message and be factual.
- Welcome reactions with assertiveness.
- Proceed in two steps to establish trust and acceptance.
- Contractualise effectively.
- Establish your personal action plan: commit to actions for integrating feedback on a daily basis.

Role-playing

In sub-groups: build feedback messages based on real situations and simulations. Feedback from observers on role-playing situations. Trainer input.

TEACHING AIDS AND TECHNICAL RESOURCES

- The main teaching aids and instructional methods used in the training are audiovisual aids, documentation and course material, hands-on application exercises and corrected exercises for practical training courses, case studies and coverage of real cases for training seminars.
- At the end of each course or seminar, ORSYS provides participants with a course evaluation questionnaire that is analysed by our instructional teams.
- A check-in sheet for each half-day of attendance is provided at the end of the training, along with a course completion certificate if the trainee attended the entire session.
